

HEARTLIGHTS

from Friends of SCMFO

San Clemente Military Family Outreach 2001 Calle Frontera San Clemente CA 92673

May 2011

It was Easter and school was almost OUT... out of $ and out of many needed supplies. So who steps in? San Clemente Military Family Outreach, polling teachers at the on-base school to determine critical shortages. Result: essential supplies are delivered to 36 classrooms.

This isn't anything new. The cash-strapped San Onofre school in north Camp Pendleton has run out of supplies before. Fortunately, SCMFO has also responded before, making sure that military family kids have necessary equipment and supplies to do their work. It is as natural as providing formula, diapers and infant clothing when families run into hard times. Or gas and car repair. It covers all kinds of daily emergency assistance and compassionate help in special circumstances of illness or death-- providing funding, for instance, toward a remedial helmet for an 8-month-old with plagiocephaly. The needs are endless, but so is the determination of loyal donors and SCMFO volunteers.

A little extra help from a little helper gets supplies delivered to classrooms.
